Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

Melville N. Cockburn began his career in law in 1883 with an appointment as deputy sheriff of Charlotte County. From that time until his death in 1928, he held several positions as an officer of the courts, including clerk of the circuit court, registrar of probates, judge of probates and Queen's counsel. He moved his practice office to St. Stephen in 1917, but retained his office in St. Andrews until 1919. After that time his office files were stored in the attic of St. Mark's Lodge, where they remained until 1975.

Custodial history

From Stevenson Hall, with B.R. Stevenson collection (MC 42) where M.N. Cockburn had an office before moving to St. Stephen.
