Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

A Saint John-based newspaper that is distributed throughout the province of New Brunswick. Publication started on July 16 1923 when existing Saint John newspapers The Daily Telegraph and The Sun and The Daily Journal merged. The paper later renamed itself as The New Brunswick Telegraph Journal on November 7 1989. In 1992 it was later changed to The Telegraph Journal. These later editions of the paper were published province-wide. The Telegraph-Journal is published by Brunswick News.

Scope and content

This collection contains newspaper clippings from the Telegraph-Journal, a Saint John based newspaper, which are related to Charlotte County. Topics of these articles can include local news, tourism, historic buildings, genealogy, and politics.
