Administrative history / Biographical sketch

Note

The early history of telephone service on Grand Manan Island, New Brunswick was recorded in the Grand Manan Historian No.XIII [1969] 'At the Turn of the Century (1877-1905) by L. K. Ingersoll.

Public Notice is hereby given that Letters Patent have been granted April 4, 1893, incorporating Isaac Newton, Grovenor Newton, Leavitt Newton, Frank A. Newton, and Wesley Newton... as The Dark Harbour Telephone Company Limited . . . for providing telephone lines and service in Grand Manan. Capital, $2,000, in 200 shares of $10.00 . . ." Published in the New Brunswick Royal Gazette in 1877 - only sixteen years after Alexander Graham Bell had patented the device.

Isaac Newton and his four sons were the first to develop Dark Harbour [on the Western side of Grand Manan Island]... [with] their main office of the Newton Business at Grand Harbour [on the Eastern side of Grand Manan Island] where they were general merchants; the plan had been to connect the two areas and provide telephone service to customers between the two points.

Busy with more lucrative affairs, the Newtons failed to develop the telephone service to its fullest potential. 'Government phones' also became available at this time, as part of the telegraph system, and were located in strategic places to sound the alarm in emergency, to quickly relay messages of any urgent matter, replacing the telegraph for this purpose. These two introductory uses of the telephone led a group of local businessmen to form a company to provide service for the entire Island community. Grand Manan Telephone Company limited was organized in 1905, receiving its charter from the N.B. Government in February 1906. The authorized capital was only $2,000 but before the year had ended this amount had been raised to $7,000, divided in shares of $25 each. Authority was received for a cable to be laid from North Head to Eastport by way of Campobello Island.

Charter subscribers in the Company that served the area for over a half century [until ownership was taken over by New Brunswick Telephone Company on April 26, 1956] included George E. Dalzell, Alexander Small, Colin Small, J. S. Richardson, Robert Middleton, Charles Watt, and J. F. Macaulay, M.D., of Castalia; C. Edward King, J. Warren Wooster, Warren Benson, Peter P. Russell, Easton Green, and William Russell, of Seal Cove; Frank Ingersoll, Joseph E. Gaskill, W. Norman McLean, S. R. Wall,

Thomas Redmond, William E. Tatton, David S. Gaskill, and Omar Thomas, of North Head; I. Leavitt Newton, Newton Brothers, A. LeRoy Ingalls, Irving Ingalls, DuVernet Jack, M.D., Lawton C. Guptill, Benjamin McDonald, Grant L. Dakin, and Manford Lorimer, of Grand Harbour; W. A. Fraser, and W. M. Kent, of Woodward's Cove.

George Dalzell became secretary-manager of the company, and throughout the life of the Corporation its switchboard and main office were located at Castalia.

The first telephone exchange on Grand Manan was set up in Colin Small's house ca. 1907, at Castalia Marsh next door to the Grand Manan Motors Garage. (see photo of house in the P8 photo Collection).

Mary 'Meme' Small, Colin's wife, served as operator for 25 years.

From a newspaper article dated April 26, 1956 states that 'N.B. Telephone Firm Transfer is Completed. Purchase of the assets of the Grand Manan Telephone Co. and the taking over next Tuesday of the radio links and telephone facilities of the federal department of transport at Grand Manan and White Head islands has been announced by the New Brunswick Telephone Co. ... A. Nelson Parker of the department of transport has been retained as agent manager for Grand Manan, reporting to J. E. Swanton, area manager, St. Stephen. Clifford Middleton, formerly of the Grand Manan Telephone Co., will assist Mr. Parker in plant work. Mrs. Lorena Travis, who has been with the local telephone company for 37 years, has been appointed traffic agent at Castalia. The island firm celebrated its 50th birthday Feb. 10.
